Our Servant Girls.

Is matters political as well as social we have flattered ourselves that we have been up with the spirit of the times. We have flattered ourselves that we have accepted in good faith what has been glowingly described as the "situation." In a word we have been ready to swallow everything that ought to be swallowed, from black and blacker, up or down, to blackest. But there is one dose we flatly say we cannot take, we mean our servant girls. From an hygienic standpoint our servant girls are nauseating, from a moral standpoint, a standing abomination, from the standpoint of decency they smell rank to heaven from that of honesty they shock all our refined ideas. Either we fail in knowing how to manage white, house servants, or the white, house servants fail in knowing how to manage us. Which ever way it is, we are not able to obtain, or having obtained, are not able to keep white help. The last and only resort is our former slave women. It cannot be supposed that the system of slavery was any assistance in keeping the female slaves virtuous and yet they are the best we can do. All hours of the day and night, the kitchen door is slammed by vagabond male visitors and the kitchen is to all intents and purposes transformed into a brothel. We endure it. It's the best we can do. If the mistress happens out for an hour, trunks are opened, drawers ransacked and the whole house is as upside down as if invaded by a custom house officer. There is not a single household but buys more pounds of lard in a twelve month, than the united avoirdupois of the entire family. There is not a single family whose living expenses are not doubled by our system of house servants. Our lard melts away like snow under a tropical sun, our coffee disappears with alarming activity, our sugar never fairly gets into the house, while our winter's pork never gets closer to the kitchen than the smoke-house. Our servants pilfer, and though small in the instance, its aggregate is something enormous. We know it, we catch them in the very act and might detect more by making the effort, and yet we endure pity and shall we say it, almost embrace. For making trouble between neighbors, retelling thoughtless words and misunderstanding expressions, and for manufacturing plausible reasonable, down right lies, the black servant girl out-herods Herod. We gossip back, except outrageous lies to be the truth and fall out with our friends. We realize the absurdity, the facts remain unchanged. Is this fiction over-drawn? Calculate your living expenses and see. We endure. Its the best we can do. No! it's not the best we can do. Every servant girl found stealing should be promptly arrested, everything missed should be traced if possible. We should know who comes and goes at the kitchen door, and when a crowd of black fellows are found loitering in the kitchen they should be told not to stand upon the order of their going, but go at once. Our servant girl system would not be endured a single day north of the Ohio river. The whole thing needs more than indifferent reformation, it must be reformed altogether. A firm determination that our kitchen shall be kept respectable, and that everything in it shall no longer be the object of larceny will accomplish the desired end.

FROM CENTERTOWN.

CENTERTOWN, April 24, '76.
DEAR HERALD.—In my last communication I find two errors. Your printer dated it March 28, instead of April 10, and he makes me say that Dr. Caperton preached at West Providence on Saturday, instead of Sunday.

Mr. S. W. Anderson, of Ceralvo, is going to start a dry goods store in Centertown, in about a week, with George M. Rowe, behind the counter. Mr. Rowe has been very successful as teacher, and I expect him to succeed in his new line of business.

Mr. John D. Bell, formerly of Ohio county, and late of McLean county, has sold his farm in that county, to Mr. M. Neal, and has purchased Mr. Wm. Taylor's farm, near Pt. Pleasant. There had originated a difficulty between Mr. Bell, and John and Wm. Cox, the Cox boys having annoyed Mr. Bell, by passing through his farm, leaving the farm open, and mistreating his stock. Mr. Bell gave them notice not to come on his farm again, but Wm. Cox, not fearing the consequences, put in his appearance on Bell's farm and received the contents of a gun, from Bell's barn. Mr. Bell, fearing further annoyance, concluded to sell out and move to Ohio county, he is a peaceable man and a valuable citizen.

Ha ha ha, isn't it funny, to have one's epitaph written, and yet to be alive, it reminds me of the story of Burl and the buzzard. Burl had lain down to rest, when a buzzard came soaring over him, whereupon he rose upon his elbow, and remarked: "Ah! buzzard, you are a little too d—u pert, I am not dead yet." It is kind in Lamont to offer his services as he as well as all others, being aware that he is the only "good" writer that would be convenient in case of emergency. Don't talk about immortalizing me, with your poetical obituary production, you have already rendered yourself immortal as a talented, and refined writer of poetical obituaries, and I think you could do a profitable business in that line. Milton, Shakespeare, Thomas, Gray and Longfellow, were once considered immortal poets, but they have sunk in utter insignificance, and they will have to bring their laurels and lay them down at the feet of Lamont whose name will be sung from every hill-top and valley, as Grayson county's pride and boast, as the great and good writer of poetical obituaries.

I attended church at Waltons Creek, on Sunday and there met our Sheriff, county Representative, and the lost "merchant." They were looking well and in the right direction.

ALFRED ASHBY JR.

FROM ROSINE.

ROSINE, KY., April 23.
EDITOR HERALD.—I have concluded to pen you a few lines for your most excellent paper, though I fear that I shall fail to prove interesting.

Business seems to be living up considerably. Messrs. J. F. & H. W. Lewis, have arrived from the East with a full line of goods, and offer them cheap for cash. The Grangers have bought a house, and have ordered a large stock of goods. Jas. Raley & son are doing a very good business in tobacco.

Our school is progressing finely under the management of our esteemed and accomplished teacher, Miss Ellen Day.

The wife of J. E. Ferguson, died on the night of the 21st instant, leaving a husband and ten children to mourn her loss. The deceased died in the full assurance of faith, of reaching a home beyond the vale. She was a member of the Baptist church, her funeral took place to-day, (the 23d) conducted by Revs. B. F. Jenkins & James Stevens.

L. T. COX.

From Breckinridge County.

HARDINSBURG, April 22d, '76.
EDITOR HERALD.—As you have no correspondent in this part of the country, I hope you will give place in the HERALD for a short letter, which may interest some of your many readers.

Circuit court assembled on the 10th, Judge Stewart in the chair, while "Joe" was in the bar ready to defend the Commonwealth in all her rights. Owing to the fine weather for farming, many of the Commonwealth's cases were "laid over," on account of the tardiness of witnesses. The grand jury made out a good many indictments. Among those that created a great deal of talk, were those that were made out against sweet, good looking young ladies, in different localities, for disorderly conduct during public worship, exhibitions, concerts, &c. I think this should be a warning to others of the fair sex.

Gratefield & Bro. were fined $300 for selling "hunk-a-dory" (liquor) to minors and others during the Fair last fall.

Among the aspirants for judge of the criminal court in this district were Geo. W. Ray, of Owensboro, and John Allen Murray, of Cloverport. The former made a very able speech, which gained for him a great many votes.

Mr. Murray in his speech dwelt at length upon the science of law, and his love for the study of the science. It is thought by a great many good citizens here that Ray will be elected. The first term of the Breckinridge Criminal Court will be held in December next. All criminal cases continued during circuit court will be tried in that.

But for fear of writing too much, I will for the present close. Enclosed $1 for the HERALD; I can't do without it.

H. C. TRUMAN.

Clark Arrested.

The lines have already begun to tighten and the once honest career of James B. Clark to culminate in his conviction as a criminal. The sad details of the defilement are familiar. The flight has been checked; the criminal is at bay. The rest of the story is short until the courts begin to spin out the startling web which has finally closed its meshes around his career. He has been captured in Tennessee, near Pikeville, in Pike county, by the Sheriff of that county, and in a few days more will be on his way to this place to answer at the bar of justice for the wrong he has committed. It is indeed a sorrowful thing. He will have to face the very people whose trust he has so outrageously betrayed, whose confidence he has so wantonly abused. The only reparation he can now offer is submission to the penalty prescribed for the folly of his conduct, and hard as it is, it will have to be borne, affording but another illustration of the lesson but too often repeated, that honesty is the best policy.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C. April 22, '76.

ENCOURAGING ADVICES.

are daily received in Washington from all quarters of the Union, of a steady increase of democratic sentiment among the people, including the best and most influential of the colored people of the South. The result of the Connecticut election did much to inspire Democrats in other States with confidence in the success of our ticket next November, and with zeal and determination to work with a will in order to bring about so desirable a result. The Connecticut election should teach the Democracy, above all things, the value and necessity of a stern adherence to party principles, and that the true secret of party strength with the people will be found in the selection of men of deeds, and of national reputation, in the cause of reform. Connecticut is, to-day, one of the few States in the Union which are out of debt, with a large surplus in the treasury, and every interest in a prosperous condition. All this has been accomplished under three Democratic administrations, and is an earnest of what the nation may expect under the rule of a Democratic president. It may be reasonably presumed that the same influences which have been so powerful in Connecticut will be equally so in New York and New Jersey; and it is, therefore, to be hoped that the St. Louis Convention, in selecting a nominee, will choose a man who, besides having a national reputation, can obtain the largest and staunchest following in those three States. If such a man be selected, there can be no reasonable doubt that he will be the next occupant of the White House.

ABSENCE FROM DUTY.

Among other good results which may be traced indirectly to the persistent investigations of the Democratic House, it may be mentioned that the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has announced that, hereafter, Internal Revenue Collectors and others in the employ of that department, will not be allowed to absent themselves from duty on private matters, and that, in future, such absences will be deducted from their regular salary. It is not known whether this order is intended to apply to absences on "party service," which has, in the past years occupied so much of the time of these officials; yet, judging the Republican party by its past, it is reasonable to suppose that such absences will be excused as a party necessity. It is a just rule, however, and if adhered to, will do much to reform this branch of the public service. If a poor clerk or a public school teacher is absent from duty for a single day, he is docked for lost time, and there is no good reason why revenue officials should not be similarly dealt with, and be paid only for time employed and services performed. Strange, however, no Commissioner ever thought of such a thing until the tide of investigation set in! What an awakening of conscious the democratic Moods and Sankeys of the House have produced by the great political revival they have inaugurated for the regeneration of republican sinners.

A TERRIBLE STATE OF AFFAIRS.

has been developed by the investigation of the management of the Government Insane Asylum in the District of Columbia. Day by day, as the investigation progresses, it becomes more apparent, not only that the Superintendent has used his position for his own personal benefit, in a pecuniary sense, but that the unfortunate patients are the victims of most inhuman treatment by the keepers and attendants. The President, however, is a personal friend of Mr. Nichols, the superintendent, drives out there and gets his whiskey, &c.; and consequently, as long he occupies the Executive chair, no one need hope for any change in the administration of affairs at the asylum.

A REMEDY FOR HARD TIMES! TRY IT!

FOR THIS GREAT REMEDY WE WISH YOU TO ACT AS OUR AGENT.

DEAR SIR:—The above fully explains wholesale or retail, or putting it on commission articles we wish to sell. This business with druggists, or selling by subscription is honorable, and by being energetic agents. This business is worth the attention of every man. It is our desire to sell good men and men of capital, appoint an agent in every county in all the United States, and Canada, say $100 per month, and grant to each the exclusive right to months (many make more)—you would sell every bottle sold in the county, nevertheless be establishing a business. Should you accept the agency for one that would pay you largely in the end, or more counties, you shall have the exclusive right to sell every bottle sold in the county, as long as you continue to hold it. Why is it? Because the Remedy, as long as you continue to hold it, you shall be able to sell it, and you can act as our agent, and all orders which you do just what we say, and agents can we may receive from your territory shall warrant every bottle. No cure, no pay, returned over to your account. Knowing that we make all losses good, this wonderful Remedy, SEVEN SEALS OR GOLDEN WONDER, should be called on to redeem a bottle. The agents run no risk of loss, rapidly in the hands of the right kind of SEVEN SEALS OR GOLDEN WONDER men, and we want some other. Now if it is put up in $1.00 and 50 cent bottles, you think you are the man for the work, you shall be able to sell it, and you can act as our agent, and all orders which you do just what we say, and agents can we may receive from your territory shall warrant every bottle.
